The residents were asked about their thoughts on the plans that were on display, as well as what would help them understand how construction would impact them. Of the 20 forms that were submitted, none highlighted any objections to the raised table or the change in speed limit to 30mph.

	The other information that was collected focused on residents' travel habits through the area which included the frequency and timings of their travels as well as the modes of transport they utilised. The forms also provided an invite for residents to receive further updates on news, events, and developments via email as the scheme progressed. The team will consider the feedback and endeavour to incorporate these in the design and construction of the project.
